

Who We Are

PWA Mission

To provide resources, services, and support as a viable confidential non-legal alternative to legal and internal employer remedies for professional women desiring assistance and healing for harassment experienced at work.

PWA Scope

To provide non-legal confidential Alternatives for professionals that experience harassment at work through advocacy, education and reporting.

You're not alone...

Support

The founder, Sandi Aigoro, (see bio attached) established Professional Women's Anonymous in 2007 to address unreported harassment issues. Support is provided by PWA's Team together with a larger Affiliate Network. This strategic Affiliate Network includes Women's Leadership Exchange, a New York based organization for professional women, and in Georgia affiliates such as Gather the Women, eLife Magazine, interfacing with DOL and the City of Atlanta.

Services

PWA intends to provide a number of direct services for harassment. These will include the following:

- Anonymous methods to report harassment
- Twelve steps program option to heal
- Access to legal resources – EEOC, Attorney Directory, legal rights education
- Access to senior level management Mentoring and Coaching support
- Access to counseling services via directory, EAP contacts and information resources
- Workshops, Seminars, and Social Events

Strength

The strength of PWA as a Human Resource service provider is gained by providing:

- High Quality Network of Support
- High Quality of Service and Professionalism
- High-level of Ethics and Confidentiality
- Leader in providing an open forum in communication for harassment issues
- Resources to help professionals to heal and rebound
- Providing a place for community, exchange and interchange of ideas
- Advocacy for Issue Resolution
- Research and Reporting of currently undisclosed issues
